

For its 15th anniversary, discover DOFUS all over again with TEMPORIS III

As their name suggests, the Temporis servers opening on July 30 are temporary servers that any player can use to start an adventure from scratch – or in other words, with an equally temporary character who starts out at level 1. On the Temporis servers, players can face off on a level playing field to get maximum enjoyment from their in-game experience, with the additional incentive of earning rewards that can then be used in the permanent version of DOFUS. It's the perfect event to celebrate our MMORPG's 15th anniversary!

Roubaix, July 29, 2019: For this year's third edition, we're reinventing the Temporis servers and offering DOFUS players an all-new community and competitive experience to enjoy with their friends: joining one of the two enemy cities of Bonta or Brakmar to do battle with the rival nation. Only one of them will emerge victorious from this battle, which will last for several weeks and yield rewards for every member of the winning nation!

Throughout all of Ankama's games, Bonta has always represented the forces of Good, while Brakmar is the city of Evil. Their rivalry has continued through the ages, from their founding right down to today, ranging from simple sporting competitions to bloody and devastating wars.

For the first time, the concept of alignment that we all know and love from roleplaying games will play a part in this event: players can join the Good or Evil nation... or even register as mercenaries to sell their services to the highest bidder, allowing them to earn additional rewards right away!

Players will have individual and group objectives, and can check their own individual scores and their nation's score on real-time leaderboards.

The event includes both PvM (Player vs. Monster) and PvP (Player vs. Player) components. Through PvM, players help their own city to advance, while PvP serves to slow the opposing city's progress. When a player is defeated after an alignment battle, they are sent to the enemy faction's prison with a real-time sentence. Players will have several different ways to get out, such as serving out their sentence, being freed by allies, or even bribing the guards!

Finally, players will collect kamas, a virtual currency, throughout the adventure, which they can then donate to their city in order to contribute to the war effort and help their side come out on top.

The countdown has begun: the Temporis III servers are open from now until the end of the summer.
